Re: Novel Coronavirus (CORVID-19) Update

Global Food Solutions, as well as our partners around the globe, are closely monitoring the developments of the recent novel coronavirus (CORVID-19). In the context of the evolving dynamics related to the coronavirus, Global Food Solutions is prioritizing the health and safety of our teammates and partners.

Different from others in the marketplace, we are currently experiencing no supply or production shortages due to coronavirus (CORVID-19). We currently use all domestic production on our products and packaging for school foodservice. We have put in place additional redundancy in our supply chain should the US market experience challenges that we are currently seeing around the globe to limit the impact of production and supply of our products. While we cannot guarantee this will prevent all supply chain possibilities, we do believe it will limit any potential disruptions we and the industry may face overall.

As we are seeing an extreme response to the novel coronavirus (CORVID-19) around the globe and are preparing for the possibility of potential school closures on both a state and national level. We are asking at this time if there is any information you are aware of in regard to your specific market to please share it as promptly as possible with the Global Food Solutions team.

In regard to emergency response meals and production readiness, we wish to share with you that we have continued to expand our emergency response and relief meal kit operation. We currently have increased our production capacity in shelf-stable goods and meals. During challenging times in recent history, such as the multiple devastating hurricanes that have hit the US shores in past years, we have operated an active supplier to many emergency reliefs programs around the country. We have already been in touch with our supply network regarding additional shelf-stable products for breakfast, lunch, and snack meals. Global Food Solutions can also provide further assistance in preparing and implementing emergency preparedness plans, as well as meal transportation and delivery. Should there be needs for emergency response meals in your market, please contact your local Global Food Solutions representative, and we will be sure to respond immediately to your request.

Global Food Solutions will continue to closely monitor the ongoing developments of the coronavirus (CORVID-19) and will issues statements and updates as appropriate to the situation.
